

Hey my Friend -

What would you say prepared one of my traders to make winning trades for 150 days straight, without one loss?

That's right. 150 days. That's a record.

So what do you suppose allowed him to pitch all those no-hitters and hit all those grand slams? I mean really...

That's crazy, right? So what was it that made all that happen?

Luck? Knowledge? Skill? Lots of money? Guts? A lot of coffee?

The answer is really simple—he is "one of us." He has the trading DNA that everyone gets when they work with me. I'm so thrilled to say that, because I have been very fortunate to have found the right combination of rules, understanding and practice to arrive at success in the stock market. It's what's required if you're to regularly make significant amounts of money trading the stock market. Period.

To many it's an enviable skill. But to people like us at Adam Mesh Trading, and my friend [REDACTED] who wrote [REDACTED], it's our passion.

But aren't only a fortunate few "blessed" with the talent and skills to trade this well?

Let me answer that by giving you the word straight from another "one of us." Very recently my office received an e-mail from one of our coaching students, Cain. Something he wrote stood out to me, "There is no other way ordinary guys can learn this way. (I have looked!)"

You would have thought that something kinda, sorta like the [REDACTED] existed somewhere else on this planet, but it is most definitely a unique product. And every rule, tip, illustration, example and instruction in this fantastic course reflects our philosophy and system of trading the stock market.

Unique has limitless value when you know it works and there's nothing else around like it. Wouldn't you agree?

Another thing Cain mentioned, highlighted his "getting it" – his definite progress in mastery of his mindset (which translates to mastery in the stock market).

He writes, "I already feel order and control coming to my thinking..."

Now, most traders would agree that your attitude must be right when you put risk capital down to execute a trade. But it so often seems to stop right there with most people.

There's so much more to being a successful trader than money and attitude, and Cain has nailed the real essence of it.

We are launching ██████████ in one more day. It is ALL about control and order. It's an awesome thing to know you have it when you approach your next trade, because that's really the whole ballgame. Control is absolutely essential.

No other course touches on order and control quite like ██████████. And in just one more day, I'm going to give you the opportunity of a lifetime. Just for signing up you will receive excerpts from ██████████'s massively successful trading method and a video that hits directly at the heart of a trade.

The value totals over $500, but you are going to get them absolutely free of charge. I believe that once you see what's really here and available to you in the ██████████, you will be in for massive change. You will now have the opportunity to experience a true renaissance in your life. It will be so radically different and exciting that you will get out of bed every morning with new energy and potential.

You will never look at the stock market the same way again.

Let me underscore something. With what we teach, you can custom-make your life over however you want it. It is possible, and many in our over-3000-strong community have already done it! You can set your financial goals moderately high, or much higher, like I did. There's really no limit.

How else do you explain an average Joe becoming a trading dynamo and having a 5-month winning streak?

These are very exciting days in the history of the stock market. And there are thousands of lucrative moneymaker trades out there for the taking. Get ready for a new game that you can win!

See you tomorrow!

Best,

Adam Mesh